Fennemore Craig Expands Litigation Practice

Two associate hires in Phoenix and Reno add depth to strong team

PHOENIX, AZ - Fennemore Craig, a leading Mountain West business law firm, announced Wade Beavers and Brett Gilmore have joined the Fennemore Craig's litigation practice. Beavers will practice in the Reno office and Gilmore will practice in the Phoenix office.

“Our litigation team is both strong and growing,” said James Goodnow, president and chair of Fennemore Craig’s Management Committee. “The Fennemore Craig litigation practice has a deep bench. Wade and Brett bring experience to further enhance our ability to help our clients navigate any disputes that may arise in a business setting.”

Prior to joining the firm, Beavers was Deputy Attorney General for the office of the Nevada Attorney General where he represented consumers in antitrust, utility, and deceptive trade matters. Beavers earned his J.D. from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas and his B.A. from the University of Arizona.

Gilmore previously served as a Judicial Law Clerk to Justice John Pelander of the Arizona Supreme Court. He brings experience from various sectors, including healthcare, commercial aviation, and nonprofit organizations. Gilmore earned his J.D. from the University of Arizona and his B.S. from the University of Utah.

Fennemore Craig attorneys have helped develop and define laws shaping our region for more than a century. We serve clients at all levels of state, county and municipal government as well as numerous federal agencies.
