Phoenix, Arizona

Brian focuses his practice in commercial litigation and water law. He has represented a financial institution in a complex case against a software vendor, where the matter settled favorably. Brian also works in water law, and represents clients in their claims to water rights.

Brian wanted a career where he could be analytical and solve complex problems. He enjoys representing his clients' interests and resolving their disputes favorably.

Away from work, Brian enjoys going to Diamondbacks games, traveling and finding new restaurants in the area.
