Walt is a highly experienced tax lawyer who has practiced tax and business law for more than 40 years. He combines the practical business aspects of a transaction with sophisticated tax structuring advice. Clients appreciate his knowledge of the income tax law and his ability to apply it in a pragmatic manner to corporate, business and real estate transactions.

In recent years, Walt has devoted significant time to expert consultant and witness work in income tax and federal estate and gift tax cases. He is a former member of the Tax Law Advisory Commission of the California Board of Legal Specialization.

In his spare time he travels with his wife, wanders the Temescal Recreation Area with their pack of Rhodesian Ridgebacks and reminisces about the days when he could work the ball right to left or left to right at will. He also enjoys sailing which is somewhat surprising given his propensity for motion sickness and limited aptitude for deploying nautical imagery or metaphor effectively.
