MICHAEL E. BUCKLEY

Michael's practice involves commercial real estate transactions with an emphasis on commercial lending, including construction loans, workouts and foreclosures, commercial real estate acquisitions and dispositions, commercial leases, and master-planned communities. He has experience in ground leasing, municipal development agreements and residential and mixed-use projects. His clients have included financial institutions and other lenders, developers of common interest communities and other commercial developments, public entities and nonprofits.

Michael was an English major in college and found the research and abstract thinking required in law school fascinating, he still enjoys it and the process of solving problems.
