ANDREA L. MARCONI

Andrea Marconi is an experienced litigator and serves as Chair of the firm's business litigation practice group. Her broad spectrum of work encompasses many areas, including complex commercial litigation, franchise litigation and banking issues such as payment processing, credit card processing and ACH transactions. In addition, Andrea has experience with entities throughout the healthcare industry, including representing health insurers and medical billing companies in numerous matters such as coverage issues, regulatory and compliance matters, and defense of bad faith claims. Routinely arbitrating and contesting cases in state and federal courts around the country, she also has extensive experience litigating a wide array of real estate contract disputes, insurance coverage and indemnity matters, restrictive covenants, and trade secret litigation.

Although she did not come from a family of attorneys, Andrea knew early on her calling was to be an attorney. She has always loved analyzing problems, persuading others as to her opinion on the facts and arguing with her father — and often winning — at the kitchen table. As a business litigation attorney, she now advises a diverse group of clients, including individuals, small and mid-sized businesses, and Fortune 500 companies.

She litigates disputes from start to finish — and often resolves these cases before they need to be addressed in the courthouse. She continues to study the art and science of disagreements, and how to best solve them, which is often conducive to long-term relationships with her clients. She frequently takes the role of outside general counsel, looking at ways of avoiding ambiguity that could lead to costly disputes in the future. While not afraid to fight when necessary, Andrea's approach throughout her career as a business litigation attorney has been to learn her clients' business inside and out, understanding critical issues and proactively handling any problems in an efficient and cost-effective manner.

When not litigating, Andrea is probably volunteering in the community. Her passion for animal welfare is showcased in her efforts as the chair of the Arizona Humane Society's board of directors, and her enthusiasm for hoops is evidenced by her seat on the Phoenix Suns Charities 88 Big Gorilla board of directors. Her two sons are her pride and joy, and her weekends are spent at their numerous basketball and soccer events.

REPRESENTATIVE CASES

- Represented the State of Arizona, Arizona Department of Transportation, in a 135 plaintiff mass action seeking 8 figures in damages resulting from flooding that occurred in Mesa, Arizona, along the U.S. 60 freeway. Following a hard fought and complex 3 week jury trial, we obtained a unanimous jury verdict on all of plaintiffs' claims. The jury also unanimously found that we established the "State of the Art" affirmative defense, which would have barred any liability that otherwise might have been established.
- Achieved early dismissal of large California pension plan in federal court litigation involving claim for benefits.
- Prosecuted claims against contractor and negotiated favorable settlement in favor of the country's second largest waste management company in slope failures case.
- Achieved early dismissal of public employee in a high-profile case alleging negligence and breach of duty claims.
- Represented a national franchisor of massage and spa clinics with franchises in 49 states, including serving as co-lead member of the franchisor's national defense counsel team for various kinds of tort claims.
- Defended and negotiated a favorable settlement of non-compete, trade secret misappropriation and unfair competition claims brought against a high-level sales employee after his departure from a prior employer.
- Defended credit card processing company in numerous putative class action cases that were consolidated and transferred to a multi-district litigation involving claims arising out of one of the largest alleged pyramid and Ponzi schemes in U.S. history.
- Achieved dismissal of payment gateway provider in same multi-district litigation involving claims arising out of one of the largest alleged pyramid and Ponzi schemes in U.S. history.
- Representation of third-party payment processor in numerous aspects of its business, including contract drafting and review, regulatory and compliance issues, employment matters, and litigation.
- Represents clients in defending against vicarious liability and respondeat superior claims arising out of negligent and intentional conduct by employees, contractors, franchisees, and other like individuals or entities.
- Defended large supplier of automated voice response systems in indemnification action arising out of patent infringement claims alleged against a call processing center to whom the client provided its product.
- Represented a local fine dining restaurant group and was part of the team who negotiated a favorable settlement for client in actions involving claims of breach of a multi-million dollar promissory note against the financiers who purchased the restaurant group and defending against trademark and trade dress infringement claims asserted by the purchaser against the restaurant group.

- Represented a large solid waste company in arbitration regarding a success fee and royalty contract where the claimant contended it had earned a large success fee and multi-million dollar royalty in connection with a landfill expansion. After a full evidentiary hearing, the arbitrator ruled that the claimant had not established entitlement to either the success fee or royalty and issued an award in favor of the waste company. The claimant moved the Arizona Superior Court to vacate the award. The court denied the motion to amend and confirmed the arbitration award.
- Defended claims by a putative class of consumers alleging unlawful pharmaceutical pricing in multi-district litigation matter.
- Represented a Japanese EPC subcontractor in arbitration of consolidated claims arising out of the construction of a 790-Megawatt Power Plant in the Midwestern United States.
- Defended more than 30 individual personal injury claims alleging purported benzene exposure in a Midwestern community against one of the world's largest oil companies related to one of the company's refineries and achieved a successful settlement of all remaining claims.
- Participated in negotiating a favorable settlement and business licensing agreement to resolve trade secret and misappropriation claims against a large industrial manufacturer client.
