WHAT WE DO

As the practice of health care continuously evolves with new laws, regulations, technologies, practices and breakthroughs, health care law continues to shift. Our experienced health care group offers innovative, responsive and practical solutions for legal problems arising from the heavily regulated and extremely intricate health care industry. We focus on resolving issues and garnering results that provide clients flexible solutions that are built to work long-term.

Our group assists clients with all aspects of health care and hospital law, including, but not limited to, complex transactions, fraud and abuse, HIPAA, licensing, insurance issues, hospital-physician relations, issues germane to assisted living and nursing home settings, health care employment and labor law, health care litigation, and government relations. Our experienced health care attorneys are also experienced in defending physicians, as well as other health care professionals, in actions brought against professionals by licensing entities such as the Medical Boards of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada and other similar agencies.

The laws governing health care become more complex as new regulations are enacted by both states and the Federal Government. Navigating through the system requires the knowledge of well-read advisors to make certain no detail is overlooked. Our health care practice group works relentlessly to remain updated and informed as the industry evolves and trends emerge, ensuring adherence to the most current laws as they apply to each client.

HEALTHCARE REAL ESTATE

Our real estate group regularly assists hospitals and individual or group healthcare providers with real estate needs taking into account the variety of laws, regulations and business issues impacting the health care industry. We have extensive experience in commercial, retail, manufacturing and industrial real estate law and represents sellers, buyers, users, landlords, tenants, developers and redevelopers to achieve their individual goals and obtain a competitive advantage while lowering transaction costs. In addition, our real estate attorneys assist our clients at every stage, and have a great deal of experience with state and local government economic incentives and tax issues; land use and zoning; regulatory entitlements; assemblage and acquisition; entity formation and tax ramifications; construction; permanent financing; and leasing.

We couple our real estate industry expertise with our healthcare knowledge and experience to approach and resolve the particular issues facing healthcare clients. We have significant experience in construction of healthcare facilities and the various healthcare impacts upon the construction process. Our real estate attorneys develop and implement leasing procedures for office, healthcare, industrial, and retail properties, including the development of lease forms tailored to particular strategies, development of documents that encompass both the requirements of lenders and the practicalities of property management, and facilitate negotiation and consummation of leases in a manner unique to the healthcare industry. In other cases, particularly for major national real estate advisors, asset managers, developers, and institutional investors, we work within pre-established lease forms and procedures.

We can help with loans and refinancing for assisted living, nursing care facilities, and similar facilities, including loans backed by HUD and Freddie Mac.

GOVERNMENT RELATIONS

- Our government relations attorneys help insurers, healthcare providers, and healthcare facilities:
 - Develop and implement effective strategies in support of legislative and regulatory agendas.
 - Understand how changes to state and local laws and regulations affect their businesses.
- Navigate state and local licensing requirements and resolve compliance and disciplinary issues.
 - Monitor and provide defensive government relations services to modify or prevent passage of legislation that creates issues for clients in the healthcare industry. This includes advocating for clients in the stakeholder process and creating coalitions as legislation is considered.
 - Oversee the introduction of legislation, including but not limited to identifying sponsors, creating coalitions, developing and executing strategies to effectively advocate for the bill's passage in each legislative chamber.
- Advocate for support of legislation with the Governor's Office to promote the successful passage or veto of legislation.
- Arrange meeting at the agency level to address client issues. This includes working with division directors, the Agency Director and Deputy Director.
- Meet with the Governor's Office to advance issues related to agency actions.
