

ALISON PULASKI CARTER

Alison Pulaski Carter practices in the area of labor and employment. Licensed in both Arizona and California, she is an experienced litigator and trusted advisor to her clients. Alison counsels employers across a wide range of industries in both litigation matters and day-to-day issues.

Alison regularly represents employers before state and federal courts, as well as administrative agencies (including the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Arizona Civil Rights Division, and California Civil Rights Department). Her employment litigation experience includes claims involving wrongful termination, sexual harassment, and discrimination based on age, gender, religion, race, and disability. She also handles cases related to disability accommodations, state and federal leave issues, wage and hour disputes, and restrictive covenants enforcement, including noncompete, non-solicitation, and confidentiality agreements. Her experience includes defending employers in multiple complex class-action matters, including national wage-and-hour cases, and actions initiated by the EEOC. By making use of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) processes, including mediation and arbitration, Alison often helps her clients with alternatives to litigation by resolving disputes efficiently and cost-effectively.

Alison's industry experience is broad and includes health care, education, courier, transportation and logistics, technology, construction, aviation, cannabis, financial services, and hospitality industries, as well as state and municipal agencies.

In addition to litigation, Alison maintains a robust practice in employment investigations. She regularly conducts investigations and advises employers on highly sensitive matters ranging from Board-of-Director level inquiries to general workplace complaints. In matters involving governmental agencies, Alison handles investigations from inception through the mediation and conciliation process.

To minimize risk and ensure legal compliance, Alison regularly counsels employers on federal and state laws including the Fair Labor Standards Act, Title VII, Section 1981, Family Medical Leave Act, Americans with Disabilities Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act, Arizona Wage Act, Arizona Civil Rights Act, California Fair Employment and Housing Act, and a wide range of other California employment statutes. She also assists with drafting and implementing employee handbooks, workplace policies, and employment agreements.

Beyond her employment practice, Alison has handled a variety of business litigation matters involving restrictive covenants, defamation, breach of contract, business torts, civil rights, professional malpractice, negligence, product liability, and post-judgment enforcement. She has also served as appellate counsel for local and national corporations in commercial litigation matters.

Following law school, Alison clerked for the Honorable Earl H. Carroll of the United States District Court, District of Arizona.
