

KATHERINE SULTENFUSS SCHICHTEL

Katherine Sultenfuss Schichtel advises families on estate planning strategies and related tax considerations, helping them navigate both routine and sophisticated planning needs. Drawing on her prior experience in trusts and estates and commercial litigation, she brings a practical perspective to her planning work, helping clients implement clear, effective estate plans designed to minimize the potential for future disputes.

Katherine earned her LL.M. in Taxation from the University of Florida Levin College of Law, where she served as a Graduate Assistant Editor on the Florida Tax Review and received book awards for Tax Policy, Advanced Topics in Taxation of Estates, and Trusts, and Estate Planning. She graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law, where she served in the Virginia Law and Business Review and worked as a teaching assistant.

She is actively involved in her community, participating in various civic and professional organizations, and enjoys spending time with her family.
