

DAVID A. MCCARVILLE

David A. McCarville is a Director in Fennemore's Business & Finance practice, where he advises entrepreneurs, partnerships, and family-owned companies on corporate governance, M&A and complex transactions, due diligence, and succession and ownership transitions. His work focuses on aligning business strategy with durable legal structures, fiduciary discipline, and long-term planning.

David regularly serves as outside general counsel to leadership teams, providing practical, business-aligned legal guidance across day-to-day operations and significant inflection points, including ownership changes, strategic transactions, and governance redesign.

As Chair of Fennemore Labs, David leads the firm's innovation initiatives, integrating artificial intelligence and emerging legal technologies into legal workflows to enhance service delivery and strengthen compliance expectations.

David is recognized in The Best Lawyers in America and is the recipient of the Burton Award (Law360 Distinguished Legal Writing Award). He serves as an Adjunct Professor at Arizona State University's Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law, where he teaches Blockchain and Cryptocurrency Law and Policy.
