JOHN D. BETHEA

John maintains a diversified practice in commercial real estate law. His casework includes acquisition and sale of improved and unimproved properties; commercial development; retail, agricultural, industrial and office leasing; ground leases (with an emphasis on retail pad sites); and real estate finance.

A majority of John's practice focuses on representing national convenience grocery store/automotive refueling facility operators and retail banks in connection with their acquisition and development of commercial pad sites.

Outside of work, John spends time with his wife and children as well as his father and siblings. He enjoys being active outdoors, and participates in snowboarding, mountain biking, motocross and other recreational activities. John's new hobby is travel, he and his wife have begun traveling to New York to see their daughter perform for the American Ballet Theatre.
