HANNAH CARDOZO

Hannah Cardozo is a business litigation associate at Fennemore. She assists businesses and individuals in commercial disputes and other complex matters. Hannah assists with case strategy, legal research, pleadings, discovery, and motion practice, helping clients address disputes efficiently and protect their business interests.

Before joining Fennemore, Hannah worked on personal injury matters, where she assisted with discovery, depositions, expert witnesses, and pleadings. She also has experience reviewing medical records, evaluating potential claims, and communicating with clients throughout the litigation process.

Hannah earned her J.D. from the University of Colorado Law School, along with a certificate in Civil Rights and Racial Justice. During law school, she gained courtroom experience representing clients as a student attorney in the Criminal Defense Clinic. She also competed on CU's national mock trial team, held leadership positions with the Black Law Students Association, and chaired the 1L CGH Mock Trial Competition. Hannah earned a B.A., summa cum laude, in criminal justice and a B.S., summa cum laude, in psychology from the University of North Florida.

Outside of the office, Hannah enjoys travelling, spending time with her cats, and snowboarding in the winter.
