MCKENNA REICH

McKenna Reich is an experienced paralegal with more than two decades of experience in the legal field, supporting attorneys through all phases of litigation. Her background spans a diverse range of practice areas, including civil litigation, energy litigation, tort law, employment law, landlord-tenant and housing matters, domestic relations, probate, workers' compensation defense, and personal injury. Her experience includes document review and analysis, investigation and research, drafting motions and discovery, preparing medical chronologies, managing complex case files and databases, and assisting with hearing and trial preparation.

McKenna earned her Bachelor of Science in Biology, cum laude, with a minor in Chemistry from Metropolitan State University of Denver. Her scientific education, combined with her knowledge of anatomy and experience reviewing medical records, provides a valuable perspective when working with matters involving complex medical and technical information.

Throughout her career, McKenna has developed strong skills in communication, critical thinking, organization, and attention to detail. She enjoys working collaboratively with attorneys and legal teams, building relationships, and using her experience to help matters move efficiently from initial investigation through hearing or trial.

Outside of the office, McKenna's greatest joy is spending time with her family. She is a proud mom to a son who races quarter-midget cars and loves supporting him both on and off the track. Her family also includes a Doberman Pinscher who keeps life entertaining. When she isn't at the racetrack or spending time with family, McKenna enjoys traveling, yoga, cycling, snowboarding, and running.
